Important notice

For workers

Whilst we want to support you, there are some legal obligations that we need to alert you to and they are:

- You must comply with the agreed actions in your recovery/return to work plan to keep receiving income support weekly payments. Our agreed actions are tailored to help you with your recovery and return to work.
- A failure to comply with an obligation under a recovery/return to work plan may lead to the discontinuance of your weekly payments (see section 48(3)(d)(ii) of the Return to Work Act 2014).

This is not a desired outcome; we want to support you to achieve your goals as outlined in this plan.

- An application for a review of a provision of a recovery/return to work plan may be made but it does not suspend obligations imposed by the plan pending a determination of the review.
- A refusal or failure to undertake work that has been offered and that the worker is capable of performing, or to take reasonable steps to find or obtain suitable employment, may lead to the discontinuance of payments (see section 48 of the Return to Work Act 2014). This may also occur if a worker obtains suitable employment and then unreasonably discontinues the employment.

For employers

Your support is important to help your employee realise the health benefits of work. As an employer, you also have some legal obligations and they are:

- You must comply with this recovery/return to work plan to help your worker to recover and return to work. If you do not, we may impose a supplementary payment.
- Failure to co-operate with the implementation of a recovery/return to work plan or to provide suitable employment for an injured worker may be considered as appropriate grounds to impose a supplementary payment (see section 147 of the Return to Work Act 2014).
- An application for a review of a provision of a recovery/return to work plan on the ground that the provision is unreasonable does not suspend obligations imposed by the recovery/return to work plan until a review authority makes a decision to modify the plan, if at all.
